CONFERENCE DETAILS

2025 National Research and Extension Advocacy Conference for Change
(NREACH)

October 22-24, 2025

URS Morong Campus and via Zoom Video Conference

ABOUT THE CONFERENCE

In an era marked by complex global challenges ranging from rapid technological transformation and climate change to social inequities and sustainability concerns the roles of research and extension have never been more vital. These twin pillars of higher education not only generate new knowledge but also translate that knowledge into meaningful, real-world applications that uplift communities, inform policy, and contribute to national and global development goals.

The 2025 National Research and Extension Advancement Conference in Higher Education (NREACH) emerges as a timely and strategic initiative that underscores the need for innovative, inclusive, and resilient approaches in addressing these pressing issues. With the theme "Innovating Pathways: Advancing Research and Extension for a Resilient and Inclusive Future," this year's conference builds upon the foundation of interdisciplinary collaboration, knowledge sharing, and forward-thinking leadership within and beyond the academe.

Recognizing the transformative potential of digital platforms, the 2025 NREACH Conference adopts a virtual modality to ensure wider accessibility and engagement. This format facilitates cross-border dialogue among researchers, extension practitioners, educators, graduate students, and policymakers—fostering a truly global exchange of best practices and pioneering ideas.

Through interactive plenary sessions, parallel paper presentations, and collaborative networking spaces, the 2025 NREACH serves as a dynamic platform to highlight cutting-edge research and impactful extension initiatives. It aims to inspire paradigm shifts in how knowledge is generated, applied, and disseminated—ensuring that both research and extension contribute meaningfully to resilient, adaptive, and inclusive societal transformation.

Objectives:

The 2025 NREACH aims to provide a meaningful and dynamic platform for fostering knowledge sharing, collaboration, and innovation in research and extension.

Specifically, it seeks to:

1. convene champions of research and extension in a scholarly and interactive virtual assembly;
2. highlight the synergy between research and extension through dynamic plenary discussions;
3. showcase exemplary practices and innovations in research and extension;
4. encourage paradigm shifts to address emerging challenges and opportunities in a digital and interconnected world.
